

Summer Employment

Insurance Exemption Requested By NFCUS

Ottawa, Oct. 10 — The National Federation of Canadian University Students today presented a brief to Labor Minister Michael Starr asking that students who take on summer jobs be exempted from paying unemployment insurance contributions.

The brief, presented by NFCUS President Gabriel Gagnon of Ottawa, said students who work during summer recesses pay roughly $537,000 in unemployment insurance contributions, but because they return to university each autumn are not eligible for unemployment insurance payments.

The brief said a survey showed 63,000, or 90 per cent of total university enrollment, work during the summer holidays.

Because of the high cost of university education, students could use for books the sums contributed to the unemployment insurance fund.

Refugee Students

72 Hungarians Register At McGill And Macdonald

Seventy-two Hungarian refugees have registered as regular students at McGill this year.

The total includes 53 in Engineering and Architecture, five in Agriculture at Macdonald College, four in Arts, Science, or Commerce, four in third year Medicine, and six students pursuing Graduate Studies and Research.

The Rev. E.C. Knowles, University Chaplain and Student

by Roger Phillips

Counsellor, was enthusiastic about the way the students are adapting themselves to Canadian University life. Dr. Knowles, as former warden of Petofi House, the temporary residence which McGill supplied the Hungarians last year, has been following the students' progress with interest.

Language Problem

Language difficulties have of course been the biggest problem. However, Dr. Knowles says the Hungarians have made "quite astonishing progress" in learning English. Those in Engineering and Architecture are having the least difficulty since they are dealing with applied sciences, subjects which have the same technical content in Canada as they do in Hungary.

Financially, the Hungarians are doing a lot to help themselves.

When Petofi House closed its doors for good on August 15 all the students had jobs and places to stay. The refugees have proven "extremely" economical and have "done a good job" earning and saving, Dr. Knowles declared.

Athletic Stars

Among the students are several prominent athletes. One Hungarian was an Olympic skating star. Another served as a canoeing and skiing trainer. Several are crack soccer players and others have specialized in track and field.

If a student finds one of his fellow-classmates is a Hungarian refugee, Dr. Knowles warns that the Hungarian should not be fussed over. A little casual advice will do no harm, however, he indicated. "Show him (the Hungarian) the ropes and help him over a few hurdles," Dr. Knowles concluded.

Parking Problem Reviewed

MR. GILLES RICHARD, TRAFFIC ENGINEER for the City of Montreal, discusses the campus parking problem with Ronald Caplan, Executive Editor of the Daily. Parking facilities, which even now are very limited, will be further diminished to the point of vanishing when the new Engineering Building is erected on the spot now occupied by the Milton St. parking lot. Mr. Richard is studying the parking survey published recently in the Daily.

He is at present chairman of the Asian Studies Group of S.G.W.C., a member of The World Federalists of Canada, and of the India Canada Association.

Colleges Aided By Council Grants

OTTAWA, Oct. 10 — The Canada Council last night announced three grants totalling $1,630,000 from the $50,000,000 university capital grants fund.

These are the first grants authorized by the council from the fund.

Carleton University, Ottawa, $400,000 for its new library building;

Queen's University, Kingston, $530,000 towards its men's residence, to include library and reading room;

University of British Columbia Vancouver, $700,000 towards an Arts building.

The $50,000,000 fund was set up by Parliament to help meet the universities' urgent need for accommodation in the face of rapidly increasing enrollments.

WUS Aided By Canada Council

The Canada Council has announced a grant of $12,000 to World University Service of Canada. The grant will be used to help finance the 1958 International General Assembly of WUS, which will be held in Canada for the first time.

Thirty Countries

It is expected that over 100 participants from some 30 countries will attend the Assembly. This will be the first occasion on which the Assembly will be held in Canada. Previous meetings have taken place in England, France, Finland, Holland, Norway, Turkey, India and the U.S.A.

The General Assembly is the supreme governing body of WUS at the international level. It meets annually to review the WUS Programme, formulate policy, and to elect the officers and members of the Assembly. It is composed of delegates from WUS National Committees, members-at-large selected for their knowledge and experience in university affairs, and representatives from international university organizations.

These organizations include the World Student Christian Federation, Pax Romana, The World Union of Jewish Students and the International Association of University Professors and Lecturers.

WUS enjoys Consultative Status with UNESCO, and works closely with UN agencies such as the World Health Organization and the Office of the UN High Commissioner for refugees. Ob-

Say Not The Struggle Naught Availeth

Petofi House is a thing of the past. The Hungarian Issue here is dead. But at McGill an important thing was done. Because of it, seventy-two people will receive University degrees.

The task of aiding these student refugees was by no means an easy one. They found themselves penniless in a strange land, whose language they did not know. They needed help in a thousand different ways.

McGill prepared to receive these students. Organizations and individuals, many of them associated directly with the University, helped. The Board of Governors allotted a home to the newcomers — Petofi House. The Student Counsellor and Chaplain, Rev. Knowles, took on the added task of serving as Warden of the House. Furniture was supplied by a government agency, and the Buildings and Grounds Department of the University was given the job of making the House liveable.

Local organizations cooperated with the University in the giving of instruction in English. The instructors were to a large extent members of the Faculty.

The new students themselves deserve much credit. They were eager to learn and eager to work. They accepted any jobs that were open — from dishwashing up. Some worked up to sixteen hours a day. And they saved their money. Moreover, in estimating their needs for the school year, they limited their estimates to include only the bare necessities.

Something big was accomplished here — there was a need, and the University, the Government, and the people of the City all cooperated to eliminate that need. They did not expect anything in return.

Arts & Science Representative To The SEC

Jerry Sigman

If elected, I shall try to represent the Faculty of Arts and Science to the best of my ability.

Since the term of office is short, I shall particularly strive for an agreeable solution to the Students' parking problem; the distribution of surplus funds proportional to campus needs and in the interests of the whole university;

When in the realm of the impossible, stress the necessity of a new union. Money spent on improvements of the present Union should be put to much better use towards the building of a new one; a closer liaison between the ASUS and SEC ...

At all times, the students' interests will be my primary consideration.

Jerry Sigman

Pen Sketch

Since entering McGill in 1954, Jerry's activities include, Editor-in-Chief of Old McGill '58, McGill Daily 1954-57, where he held the position of Assistant News Editor, COTC, 1955-57 (Armoured Corps), where he was Editor-in-Chief of the Armoured Corps School magazine. He is presently in his last year Honors Biochemistry.

We the undersigned endorse Jerry Sigman for the position of Arts and Science Representative to the SEC. We believe him to have all the qualities necessary for the position.

If I am elected, I would like to see:

1. A greater participation of the Arts and Science Undergraduates Society in Campus Affairs. This body's executive is so weak that half of its members barely realize it exists. As a member of the S.E.C. (and therefore of the A.S.U.S. Exec.) I would try to stimulate an active interest in such activities as the Winter Carnival, and an organized Freshmen Reception Week.

2. The cutting down of allocations for such activities as the McGill Prom., the cost for which annually exceeds $3,000 and serves but a small percent of the student population.

3. More open meetings of the S.E.C. The S.E.C. of the University of Montreal holds all their meetings on a stage in an auditorium.

4. McGill remain out of N.F.C.U.S. until this association has proven its worth.

5. A realistic and objective approach towards the flagrant parking conditions now in existence on the campus, with an appeal being made to City Hall to try to rectify this situation.

6. Better illumination, and installation of permanent Arborite tables in the Commons Room of the Arts Building

7. The reinstallation of a coffee machine in the basement of the Arts Building.

To the voters of Arts and Science:
The most pressing need on campus today is a new Student's Union. As your representative I would urge the SEC to take the lead in negotiations to get it built soon.

The SEC should continue to foster good relations between McGillians and students elsewhere. Therefore I would press for re-entry into NFCUS if a reasonable financial deal can be made. Students should have the right to attend all meetings of their elected representatives. I will work for "open meetings" of the SEC. At the same time I will seek to eliminate any conflicts which might arise with the efficient carrying-on of the SEC's executive responsibilities.

I will do my best to represent the wishes of Arts and Science and promote its activities.

If you want other information about my qualifications ask your friends who have worked with me on the Daily (I'm News features Editor), Choral Society (Business Manager), Red and White Club (My Fur Lady) or McGill PC Club (President).

If you decide to vote for me my name is on top of the ballot — and thanks.

Bob Amaron

Phil De Zwirek

When in the realm of the impossible election promises are as easily broken as they are made. Therefore it is my policy to present a feasible and beneficial platform. If elected I will:

- 1) Investigate the possibility of SEC open meetings.
- 2) Investigate the possibility of Athletic Identification Card Passes.
- 3) Bring before the SEC a campus parking solution which has already been formulated.
- 4) Bring before the SEC any resolution of problems that a private body of students would like to have in the open.

If elected I will do my best to maintain the good name of Arts and Science and represent its students to the best of my ability.

Phil DeZwirek

Pen Sketch

We, the undersigned, would like to see Phil DeZwirek elected to the post of A & S SEC representative for the following reasons:

Phil has proved his executive qualifications in the following positions:

- 1) Winter Carnival Executive
 - 2) Debating Union Executive
 - 3) Past Executive Phi Epsilon Pi Fraternity
 - 4) Hillel Executive
 - 5) A.S.U.S. Executive
- Phil is also
- 1) Intercollegiate Debater
 - 2) Papineau Cup Finalist
 - 3) Intercollegiate Basketball Player

Due to Phil's exceptionally diverse capabilities we could not think of a more qualified man for this position and we request your support by voting for Phil De Zwirek.

Redmen In Queen City To Battle Blues, 'Bugs'

by Fred Seligman

En route to Toronto — It will be a hungry bunch of McGill football players that will take the field tomorrow at Varsity Stadium to tackle the University of Toronto Blues. It will be the second regular season start for Sullivan's crew who were soundly trounced by the Western Mustangs 26-7 at Molson Stadium last Saturday.

The Redmen are hungry, hungry for a win that will put them in the thick of the intercollegiate title hunt. A loss would extinguish any title aspirations the Redmen might have. It would put them in the cellar, four points back of the leaders with but four games remaining.

The club is still smarting from the trouncing they took last weekend. Coaches Sullivan, Cicia and Robillard still can't put their finger on the right answer to the big question: "What happened last Saturday?" All seem to agree that the boys all played badly at one time. Of course the 'flu bug' did not help them any and neither did Konyk's leg injury early in the contest.

The coaches seem to feel that if the club can hit the form they had for the Kingston trip two weeks ago, all will be well.

Bill Beamish Dick Risk

The squad went through a full-scale workout last evening. No special aspect of the game was stressed with the club going through passing, running and defensive plays. The coaches have their hands full with the 'flu bug' still hitting the squad. Centreman Garnet Bertrand, guard Ed Smith, tackle Mike Byrne, halfback Warren Lynch and end Sam Yuska are all down with the pesky virus. Also on the disabled list is Leo Konyk who is out with a leg injury. Coach Sullivan is taking along 26 men for the contest. The presence of Merv Shaw who did not play last week and John Tilley who only saw limited action in the first quarter will be welcome additions for the contest. Their presence should strengthen the McGill line which was, to a large extent, the downfall of the team last Saturday.

In the backfield Jan Sandzelius, John Cronin and Carl Hanson should do most of the running. Sandzelius turned in a standout performance last outing, so too, did Cronin, but Hanson who ran well in spots could not get untracked.

Turning to the Toronto picture, the Blues shape up as a strong and fast club. They defeated the defending champion Queen's Golden Gaels by a 16-8 score last week-end. The quarterback position will be handled by veteran Larry Joynt who is quite a versatile performer. The Blues' backfield will be built around returnees Tim

Water Polo Team Wins

By Leonard Waxman

The McGill water polo squad successfully opened their 1957-58 season last night by beating Concordia N.D.G. 9-4 in an exhibition game. McGill's victory came as a pleasant surprise, because Concordia were believed to be further along in their conditioning.

Although many McGill players had not been in the water for some time due to the current rage, the flu, they immediately took control of the game. Before the Concordia players turned around, they were behind 5-0.

Charlie Evelyn opened the scoring on a pass from Bernie "Topper" Toporowski. Topper then rammed home 2 goals in quick succession, but Rod Roy, not to be outdone, quickly scored 2 more. At this point, Rens Vanderschoot put Concordia on the score sheet giving goaler John Chabrol no chance on his hard shot. Topper closed the first half scoring on a nice set-up by Gaston.

Lack of conditioning

Behind by a score of 6-1, Concordia fought back in the second half. The McGill players tired somewhat, which was obviously caused by their lack of conditioning. Leo Pick put Concordia back in the game when he beat Chabrol cleanly on a penalty shot.

Evelyn and Topper stretched McGill's lead to 8-2, but France Leblanc scored twice for Concordia before Evelyn made the final score 9-4 on a pass from Phillips.

McGill showed a strong defense, with Chabrol virtually unbeatable in goal, while Serge Morin, Ed Lewis, Leon Jacobovits, and Brahm Gelfand all played a strong game at guard. Besides Topper, Evelyn, and Roy, who were up to their usual standards, Bill Manning, Paul Kelly, Jim Gaston, and Gordon Phillips played well.
